Westvaco Presents Bookcovers To APS

Keep Virginia Green Bookcovers were presented to Mrs. Pat Torrence, principal of Appomattox Primary School, last Wednesday by Andy Dreszer, CFM Supervisor with Westvaco Corporation.

Along with the presentation of bookcovers, the students at Appomattox Primary School were visited by Woodsy Owl. Woodsy Owl, symbol of antipollution, advised students to leave our forests and parks clean.

Each year since 1962, thousands of bookcovers have been distributed annually to schools throughout Virginia by participating forest industries as members of the Virginia Forestry Association.

Featured on the bookcovers are the winning poster entries of last year's annual Keep Virginia Green poster contest. The contest is sponsored each year by the Virginia Forest Association. There are 726 student prizes, four school prizes and 10 teacher awards totaling $3,150 which are awarded each year. The contest is open to all students in grades one through twelve enrolled in any public or private school in Virginia. Details of the contest appear on the bookcovers and additional information can be obtained from the local Virginia Division of Forestry Office or Westvaco's Office on Court St. in Appomattox.

TOPS News

Dr. Natalie Allon of Hofstra University has been studying social reactions to overweight people for more than ten years. She says that overweight people are often mortified and ashamed about their condition and are filled with self-disparagement and self-hatred, and moreover, they are made to feel like sinners and criminals. Dr. Allon said that obesity in America is looked upon as an immoral self-indulgence and lack of willpower; fat people are viewed as sloppy and sick.

Even worse, Dr. Allon reports that fat persons are made to feel that they don't fit in by others wincing, gossiping, over-staring and refusing to look at them, as well as making jokes about them. The stigma attached to being fat prevents many fat persons from realizing their potential because their concern over being overweight overshadows their abilities.

If you are overweight, your first step in weight reduction should be to stop allowing the attitudes of others to influence your self-image. Take a good look in a mirror, accept your condition, then set about to correct it by proper diet and exercise. Most overweight is simply caused by overeating, not criminal activities. Self-respect is one of the most important diet tools known to man. Scales, purchased through Sears and guaranteed to weigh accurately, were used for the first time this week. Our TOPS members were very pleased, especially our weight recorders, Evelyn Austin and Betty Hodges.

From the Reader's Digest - Self-Delusion is pulling in your stomach when you step on the scales.

A welcome is extended to all our new members! They are Nellie Bryant, Delsie Harrup, Darlene Johnson, Helen Franklin, and Anne Hodges.

TOPS has a new weigh-in time. It is now 6:30 p.m. Our meetings are held every Monday night at the Old Evergreen School. If you have any questions, call our leader, Gay Stafford, 352-5873.

Thelma Knight, TOPS co-leader, gave a program designed to give all the members a better understanding of their dieting program. She pointed out some of the prevalent dieting myths. Such as having a baked potato is taboo on a diet. Actually a potato is very nutritious and filling and contains only 75 calories. Also, Thelma pointed out that its the daily total calorie intake that determines the success of your diet, but how many times have you heard that you shouldn't eat after dinner, or have a snack, or eat before you go to bed? If you have allowed for any of these on your diet, actually there should be nothing wrong in doing them.Its programs such as these that really help the members. Thank you, Thelma.

Leader Gay Stafford also discussed money-making projects with the members and it was decided that we would sell dishcloths and several varieties of trees. So if your dishcloth has seen better days, or your yard is bare, let our members know!

Moses To Show New Cars Today, Thursday

The 1977 Chevrolet debuts at Moses Motor Company today, September 30th as an all-new, full-size car for America, more closely tuned to changing consumer life-styles and matched with the nation's goals of conserving fuel and natural resources.

The completely redesigned Caprice and Impala models offer crisp new styling with a long list of design and engineering improvements. The new Chevrolets boast more fuel efficiency and safety effectiveness while being 11 inches shorter and almost 700 pounds lighter than their predecessors.

The new models have more room inside despite the smaller exterior size. This includes more rear legroom and more front and rear headroom along with added usable storage space in the trunk.

Matching the trim new dimensions, additional engineering efficiency and fuel economy is made possible by the addition of a 4.1 litre (250-cubic inch), six-cyclinder engine and a smaller displacement 5 litre (305-cubic inch) base V8. The six-cylinder engine is the standard power plant on the sedans and coupes while the 5.7 litre (350-cubic inch) V8 becomes the top optional engine. All are used in conjuncion with the automatic Turbo Hydra-matic transmission.

Ride and handling characteristics parallel the dramatic advances in weight reduction and interior accommodations.

The 1977 Chevrolet is being offered in two series - the top-of-the-line Caprice and the ever-popular Impala. Two-door coupes, four-door sedans and four-door two- and three-seat station wagons are available in each series. The former Impala S and Landau options are discontinued.

The 1977 Chevrolet has a 116-inch wheelbase, a reduction of 5.5 inches from the 1976 Chevrolet. Its overall length is 211.9 inches (10.8 inches under the 1976 Chevreolet). However, its height of 57.4 inches is 2.3 inches greater than the former model, an important factor in the car's interior roominess. Its width is 75.4 inches, a reduction of approximately four inches.

The new Chevrolets mark the first time a number of advance design tools have been used for an all-new vehicle program. Among these applications were use of 3/8-scale plastic models and an electronic analyzer to check and study early body structure, computerized mathematical models of car components, and wind tunnel aerodynamic studies of scale and full-size models. These techniques enabled Chevrolet to make early changes in the new vehicles' designs to insure the most efficient use of materials.

The trim new styling of the 1977 Chevrolet features a forward thrust with a strong fender-high horizontal line the full length of the car and a gently sloping aerodyamic hood. An exclusive coupe profile features a wraparound rear window. Caprice and Impala models have distinctive grille ornamentation and trim feature inside and out.

The Caprice radiator grille texture continues beneath the bumper and a new stand-up Caprice hood ornament on flip-flop pedestal is highlighted. The Impala's front end features a Chevrolet bow tie trademark in the center of the grille. Both Caprice and Impala have dual horizontal headlamps.

The new Chevrolet continues the convenience of past serviceability such as brake lining, ball joint and tire tread wear indicators, with the addition of an engine electrical diagnostic connector which makes possible 35 different diagnostic checks and tests. An additional connector allows 34 checks to be made on models with air conditioning. Wired to critical points of the engine electrical system, the connector permits the service center to make accurate checks and measurements so that operational faults can be identified and located quickly for proper servicing.

In one of the most extensive program of its kind in Chevrolet history, twenty-four different methods are used to fight corrosion at different location in the car. These include selective use of metals, paints, sealers, special coatings and new methods of fastening to reduce corrosion.

Other Chevrolet highlights for 1977 are:

A new acoustical package tailored to assure greater ride quietness at all levels.

A new cowl high ventilation system combined with the new modular heater and air conditioner controls centrally located for driver and passenger operation.

New lighter weight front and rear steel bumper face bars backed with high strength aluminum reinforcements that save more than 100 pounds in weight.

Inertia seat back locks on coupes for ease of entry and exit to and from rear seat.

A new chassis with short and long arm coil spring suspension in front and four-link coil spring rear suspension.

A new perimeter frame that contributes importantly to overall improvement of vehicle's structural efficiency.

Lighter weight 15 - inch wheels and smaller radial ply tires as a feature of the weight reduction program. (Heavier capacity tires and wheels for wagons and a wide range of optional tires.)

A two-tone paint option with color break slightly below the belt line as an added complement to the new styling.

Chevrolet 1977 station wagons compare favorably with the 1976 model. Cargo width at the wheelhouse, for example, is 48.6 inches, enough to accommodate four-by eight playwood sheets.

In addition to the new tailgate that opens down, closes up with window down or sideways with window open or closed, the 1977 wagons feature a new lockable storage box in the rear quarter panel and a utility tray in each quarter trim panel.
